

MAY DAY PARADERS WERE SOCIALISTS.

There Were a Few Federation People There, Though, to Shout for the Eight-Hour System.

They Marched to Union Square and Had the Usual Speeches About the Wrongs Done to Labor.

GAVE THE POLICE NO TROUBLE.

Of the 20,000 in the Line, Many Were Women, Who Bore Banners Alluding to Women Who Contract International Marriages.

Nearly the whole of the East Side population turned out last night to witness the Socialists' big May Day parade, which was one day late. The Federation of Labor was largely represented in the procession and in the mass meeting held afterward at Union square, but the Socialists were the prevailing element. They were out to show their strength, while the Federation's object was to make an impression for the eight-hour movement.

The procession was divided into four divisions and two sections. The first three divisions, comprising the "Triangle," a secret council of labor leaders; the Women's Infant Jacket Makers, a number of Turners' societies, Upholsterers', Engineers', Butchers', Hatmakers' and a score of other unions, was formed in Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets, near Second avenue. The fourth division, which was the second section of the parade, formed in Henry street. In it were the United Hebrew Trades, Mineral Water Bottlers, Drivers' Union, Chorus Union, Shirtmakers' Union, Typographical Union No. 23, Cigar-makers' Union and the Brotherhood of Tailors. This latter section started to march at 7:30 o'clock to join the main procession.

The parade proper started at 8:30 o'clock from the Labor Lyceum, in East Fourth street. Secretary Ernest Bohm, the grand marshal, and six aids, were at its head. The line of march was northward to Twenty-first street, to Fourth avenue, and thence to Union square. It is estimated that there were at least 20,000 men and women in the line.

Banners, in which red was the predominant color, were to be seen everywhere. Hundreds of transparencies bearing such inscriptions as "Down with Wage Slavery," "Socialism Will Abolish Poverty," "Fule Women in Coronets; Industrious Ones in Rags," were also plentiful.

A crowd of several thousand was waiting for the paraders in Union square. For an hour the square was filled with a moving mass of humanity, banners, torches and the din of a score of brass bands. Finally speaking was begun from the platform in the square and from two open wagons to the east and west of it.

On the main platform Patrick Murphy was the first to speak about the treatment accorded the workmen, and was followed by several others, the addresses being of the regular Socialistic character. Police were on hand, but had nothing to do.

BEGGAR OF NOBLE LINEAGE

The Little Granddaughter of a Rich Italian Baron Arrested by Gerry Society Agents.

According to Agents King and Pessara of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the granddaughter of a wealthy Italian baron has been selling newspapers and soliciting alms in City Hall Park. The child is Lucia Molla, ten years of age.

Lucia was arrested Thursday evening by the Gerry agents for begging, and yesterday she was arraigned in the Centre Street Police Court. Her mother lives in the basement of No. 388 Cherry street, with her common-law husband, Ernest Desautel, a bootblack.

When the agents went to that address to investigate the home life of their prisoner, they found the place reeking with filth. Mrs. Molla can talk very little English, but Agent Pessara, who talks Italian, learned from her that she was the daughter of Baron Molla, and that the child is the daughter of an Italian named Stabile, who lives in Cosenzo. She said she had not sent Lucia out to beg, but to sell papers. At the request of Agent Pessara the girl was sent to the Home of St. Agnes.

FATHER-IN-LAW SHOT AT.

George Gillick Sends Three Bullets Through the Window of a House in Elizabeth.

Three shots were fired in succession through the front window of the residence of William Gross, of Elizabeth, last evening. The bullets crashed into the ceiling just above where Gross was standing, and broken bits of the window glass cut both him and Mrs. Gross. Mrs. Gross, after the first shot, tried to pull her husband out of danger.

The shots were fired by George Gillick, a son-in-law of Gross, and he was arrested and locked up. The reasons for Gillick's actions are not known. Both men are broken on the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Ernest Bohm, Grand Marshal.

He led the parading Socialists through the streets last night to Union square, where a number of speeches were made by leaders of the "Reds."

MADE A GUEST OF HOST CHAMBERLIN.

An Elaborate Feast Spread for "Genial John" at Old Point Comfort.

Testimonial of Loving Friends from New York, Baltimore, Washington and Richmond.

BANQUET ROOM A FLORAL BOWER.

American Beauty Roses, Jacquemonts, Lilies-of-the-Valley and Orchids Formed the Decorations of the Table. The Diners Present.

Fort Monroe, Va., May 2.—John F. Chamberlin was tonight the guest of friends who gave the genial boniface a most elaborate banquet at the Hotel Chamberlin, Old Point Comfort. The arrangements were made by Mr. William A. Marburg, of Baltimore, who had suggested that Host Chamberlin had been giving dinners to other people for so long a time that some one ought to give a dinner to him.

New York was represented by C. J. Ryan, H. A. Parr, Walter S. Johnson, R. A. C. Smith, Herman Ellis, Harry D. Macdon, John F. Gibbons and John W. Keller; Baltimore by John B. McDonald, E. L. Bartlett, W. A. Albert, and Theodore Marburg; T. J. Hayward, Charles Goldsmith, J. H. Cottman, Ed. Abell, P. B. McLaren, W. G. McCormack and N. J. Hill; Richmond by C. D. Langhorn, and Washington by H. C. McComas.

The table was elliptical in shape and was loaded down with American Beauty roses, Jacquemonts, lilies of the valley and orchids, while the private dining room of the Hotel Chamberlin was a mass of palms and ferns and cut flowers. All the decorations of this elaborate display were brought from Baltimore especially for this dinner.

AN ELABORATE MENU.

The souvenirs were handsome and the menu was the best that the resources of the Chamberlin could afford. It follows: Little Neck Clams. Bisque of Crabs. King of the Sea, Baked Butter. Roast Philadelphia Capon, Giblet Sauce. Potato Croquettes. Smithfield Ham. Broiled Fresh Mushrooms on Toast. Saddle of Spring Lamb. New Green Peas. Cold Asparagus. Terrapin a la Chamberlin. Old Point Comfort Punch. Golden Plover with Cress. Lettuce Salad. Small Baskets with Strawberries. Ice Cream in Mushrooms. Frozen Bonbons. Assorted Cakes. Cheese and Crackers.

Office, Lancers, Cigars. Wines—Chateau Latour, Blanche, Amontillado, Sherry, Robart Brut, Mumm's Extra Dry and Chamberlin, 1870.

"THE BEST FELLOW IN THE WORLD."

The dinner cards were hand-painted and each was different in design from the others. The only legend on the cards was this: "The Hon. John F. Chamberlin, late of Washington."

William A. Marburg presided, and in toasting the guest of the evening said that John Chamberlin was the best fellow in the world, a sentiment that was received with the most uproarious manifestations of approval. Everybody had something complimentary

STICK TO THE CHURCH.

War on Ballington Booth's Volunteers Is Declared by the Salvation Army at Newark.

The Salvation Army in Newark has barricaded its headquarters, the old Central Presbyterian Church on Washington street, and purposes to hold the fort against the American Volunteers, which had leased the building. The lease was secured by Commander Ballington Booth on April 14, and the Volunteers were to have possession on May 1, but the Salvation Army refuses to give up the place, even at the demand of the Presbyterian Church Extension Society, which owns the property.

James P. Dusenberry, who represents the Presbyterian Church Extension Society, went to the barracks with a lawyer and a policeman yesterday, but the Salvationists would not let them in the building. Posted on the door was the following notice:

There will be no meeting here tonight on account of some difficulties which have arisen and which are not at present explainable. STAFF CAPTAIN DUNHAM, ADJUTANT DAMON.

The barricading of the building was done at the order of Commander Booth-Tucker, Adjutant Damon says. When the Salvationists heard that the church had been leased by the Volunteers they secured new quarters at Bank and High streets, and had moved to them when orders were received from New York to return to the church and hold possession.

Captain Hanniff, for the Volunteers, said that the Salvationists began to move out of the church on Thursday, and therefore he was surprised when they refused to surrender the place. Notices have been published announcing that Mrs. Ballington Booth will speak in the church at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, but owing to the trouble the Volunteers were compelled to engage the Essex Lyceum, on Clifton street, for her.

Woman of Many Husbands.

Danbury, Conn., May 2.—Jeanette Hall Smalley, the alleged bigamist, was brought to this city from Newburgh, N. Y., last night on a requisition from the Governor and lodged in Jail No. 1. Smalley was given a hearing in the City Court this morning and the case was continued until Monday.

A NEW FORCE AT WORK.

Another Important Advance--The People Working Out Their Own Material Progress.

RESULTS OF CONCERTED EFFORT.

Re-Entrance of the Small Investor Into Ownership of the Choicest New York City Property.

Existing conditions have gradually expelled the people from ownership of city land until now in New York more than three-fourths of the land is owned by one-fourth of the people. The people themselves have furnished the weapon of their expulsion. They have deposited their money in savings banks by hundreds of millions for a purpose of interest. It is this very money, to a large extent, that is used to absorb city land from out of the colossal profits of which the crumbs of 3 or 4 per cent are dropped to the depositor. All these years the same condition would have secured an organization of themselves to obtain a larger interest and the enormous profits of the advance in New York City real estate profits have been entirely absorbed by the users of savings deposits.

Safety is there a bank anywhere as safe as New York City improved land? Has New York City real estate ever disappeared an investor's money? Has it ever asked delay? Has it not made fabulous fortunes for those trusting it? In days of dependence of the masses the savings character of profits has been useful; but the public schools have done their work. The daily papers, the social, fraternal, political, athletic and labor organizations, the gradations and many forms of commercial concentration have taught the people the power in combination for themselves. And with what results in two years' trial? Six per cent and over $50,000 increase of principal.

Two years ago investors of small sums organized under the name of Cass Realty Corporation, carried by the State to buy and improve New York City real estate only, with an authorized capital of $150,000, quickly increased to $1,000,000.

Any sum of money, large or small, $1 or more, is received. The advantages are: You deposit what you please, when you please, and your money at once begins to earn interest. There are no forfeitures or penalties or restrictions or fines, as in building associations. You own at once what you pay for, income begins immediately. Deposits can be added at any time to any amount. No long years waiting with this risk. Buy banks, for the security is the best in the world—New York City improved real estate. Small investors are no longer driven to distant lands, but are getting into the very choicest places in the heart of the city. Fortunes are made in savings and the security is New York City real estate.

Correspondence of the public and personal visits are welcomed by the Corporation, and full particulars are most cheerfully accorded to any one making inquiries either in person or by mail.
